Maxheat Releases the condensed version of his latest album YOLO Musopoly via the Millennium Music Mission.

AKRON, Ohio -- They're back, and the beats go on at Shockwave Studio in Akron Ohio as Maxheat releases Musopoly: Corporate Edition online. "The Millennium Music Mission's heartbeat never stops," says Mad Max aka Maxheat, President of Operations, recording artist, and producer at M3 Records and Pro Flow Radio. The 21 track project is available for digital download through all major outlets. In the summer M3 plans to release another vintage project consisting of a variety of genres including pop, R&B and of course their unmatched brand of unbridled but conscious Hip Hop. This go around, M3 will light you up with the "Mad Max Six Pack". This intoxicating brew comes with the very necessary disclaimer, "Listen responsibly". You'll have to take a breather every now and then, and hit the pause button so as to gather your thoughts. "Do not listen and drive for uninterrupted extended periods of time," says Nujam, M3 Records Ceo. "This fresh elixir will definitely leave its listeners inebriated in a mental fog. Stop the car, get out and regain your bearings before you push that button again."

Be prepared for another mind bending experience from The Music Solution. To kick off this experience, the Millennium Music Mission will crack open this can of music and wet your whistle with the release of its first single from the Mad Max Six Pack called Slave Ninja. Slave Ninja is a look into Mad Max's world and that which occupies his and most of our time, slaving to make ends meet. "Recognition of social inequalities and the [work crunch] is what inspired me," said Max. "Life is more than just a party in the streets. Some of us have to toil daily just to get by. That's why we at M3 Records strive not to be a one trick monkey producing strictly party style music." Like the soon to be released album, the Slave Ninja single is socially powerful and Intoxicatingly moving due to addressing the economic and social state of American life. Best place to listen to it is your cave. Kick back enjoy the brew. You won't need a designated driver and as the beat goes on. Please don't forget to listen responsibly.
